John is chosen for Sir Richard's team

A HORNSEY man is one of 10 young people to have reached the final of an initiative to be part of a team to arrange a one-off event for Sir Richard Branson in London next month.

John Toner applied to take part in the Virgin Media Pioneers scheme at the start of the summer and was shortlisted to complete paid work experience with the company.

During that time the 26-year-old – and other potential candidates – competed against one another for a place in the final ten.

The project team will be responsible for every decision leading to the final spectacular in September, be it deciding on who should star in the event, marketing and PR or event direction. John will be responsible for filming and content at the event but will work with the whole team.

They will also have the opportunity to learn from event management professionals running this year's V Festival, which will be held this coming weekend.

John said: "It is such an honour to be chosen for the final ten in the project. I'll be making sure even those that can't attend the event can enjoy the show. It's a great opportunity and I can't wait to get stuck in."

Did you see attack?

DETECTIVES have appealed for three men who may have witnessed a sexual assault in Bruce Castle Park to come forward.

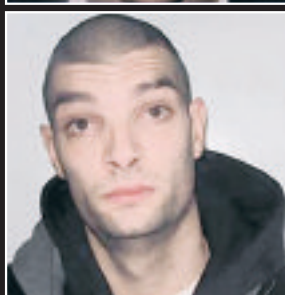

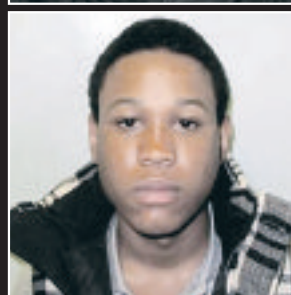

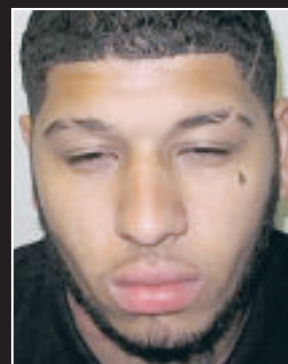

The attack happened at around 1.30am on Thursday. The 55-year-old victim suffered some minor injuries to her neck and face.

It is believed that the suspect grabbed the woman at knifepoint from New Road and pulled her into the park, where he forced her to touch him.

Officers believe that the suspect ran off when three young black men passed by.

The suspect is described as being a black man, aged about 20 to 25 years, approximately 5ft 10in tall, wearing a white jacket with a black line or lines down the sleeves.

Anyone with information should call DC Marysia Temple at Haringey CID on 020 8345 0712 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

GANG SENTENCED FOR CAMPAIGN OF VIOLENCE

A GANG that instigated scenes of violence and disorder in Wood Green last August has been jailed.

They were seen on CCTV as among the first on the scene, intent on attacking people and property. And their actions acted as a catalyst for the large-scale looting and violence on August 6.

Members of the group met up under The Mall Wood Green, armed with bottles, rocks and sticks. They subsequently launched into a rampage that began when they attacked a marked police car.

Following that they targeted a series of shops in the area, smashing windows and causing thousands of pounds of damage, and set fire to two cars parked nearby.

The gang then subjected staff and customers at the Quicksilver Gaming Arcade to a terrifying ordeal as they were trapped inside while the thugs smashed their way into the premises.

Employees were robbed of their cash and belongings, and games machines were also damaged as the attackers kicked them to try to get the money inside.

Upon leaving the arcade the gang attacked a passing vehicle and pushed a cyclist off his bike before assaulting him.

They then barricaded the High Road using material taken from roadworks and targeted drivers as they attempted to make their way through. A female motorist suffered a serious facial injury when she was attacked by an unidentified member of the group.

All of the defendants pleaded guilty either before or on the first day of the planned trial on July 2. They were sentenced on August 1.

Dean Richards, 23, of Morley Avenue, Wood Green, was sentenced to two and a half years for robbery, burglary, handling stolen goods and violent disorder.

Carl Richards, 18, also of Morley Avenue, was sentenced to one year and six months at a young offenders' institute for burglary.

Rickelle Christian, 23, of Inca Terrace, South Tottenham, was sentenced to five months at a young offenders' institute for handling stolen goods.

Dkwan Mitchell, 18, of Braintree, Essex, was sentenced to one year and ten months in a young offenders' institute for aggravated burglary, violent disorder and theft.

Chiamaka Amaezeson, 18, of Park Road North, Aston, Birmingham, was sentenced to two-and-a-half years in a young offenders' institute for burglary, violent disorder.

Julian Kasai, 26, of Effingham Road, Hornsey, was sentenced to three years and six months in prison for robbery, aggravated burglary and violent disorder.

Nicky Pell, 28, of Hornsey Park Road, Hornsey, was sentenced to two-and-a-half years for robbery, aggravated burglary and violent disorder.

A 17-year-old male, who cannot be named for legal reasons, was sentenced to one year at a young offenders' institute for aggravated burglary, violent disorder and burglary.

A 16-year-old male, who cannot be named for legal reasons, was sentenced to one-and-a-half years in a young offenders' institute for aggravated burglary, arson, and violent disorder.

Following last week's anniversary coverage of the riots, we continue to explore the impact of last year's unrest

Web page has helped to boost community spirit

By Mary McConnell

WITNESSING the horror of the riots convinced an Enfield mum-of-two to create a website that would encourage more community spirit.

Emma Rigby set up the Love Your Doorstep page on Facebook following the riots last year.

It allows members to post messages, queries, advice and information about anything and everything in Enfield.

The page has proved such a success that Emma has now set up a website, www.loveyourdoorstep.co.uk, and wants business owners to sign up and pledge their support.

She said: "One of the reasons I set up

Love Your Doorstep was to try to bring back the community spirit we had lost.

"When I saw all the rioters around London, I found it was like watching a movie. It had come out of nowhere, although I knew the country was quite volatile because of the recession.

"I had been thinking of the idea of the website for a long time – I was finding it hard to settle in Enfield, even though I had been in London for about ten years, six of those in this area. I really wanted to put down roots."

Emma said that since creating the web page people had made friends, and when she was out in the borough she was always bumping into people she knows through Love Your Doorstep.

"It has made me feel more at home," she added. "I have been getting lovely emails from people saying what a difference it has made to their lives. I really think we have got a fantastic community here.

"I'm not saying we won't ever see rioting again, but we are more prepared and I would like to think we are a stronger community because of it and we are not scared to pull together."

Love Your Doorstep has proved such a success that Emma is launching the scheme in other boroughs and even in the Essex village of Great Notley, where ten per cent of residents have already signed up.

Olympics have prevented a repeat of disturbances, claims professor

THE feel-good factor of the London Olympics could have saved the country from another summer of civic unrest, says a Middlesex University academic.

Dr Anthony Goodman, professor of criminal and community justice studies at the university, said that the economic gloom brought on by the recession was a factor in last summer's disturbances.

During the riots, looters and vandals tore through a succession of London boroughs over three nights at the beginning of August.

Dr Goodman said: "You have a growing disparity between the haves and have-nots. A lot of people who went there (to loot) didn't have a lot of life opportunities.

"The amount of income they get has been cut back. For a lot of people, they just don't see what life is going to offer them."

The academic added that there is "no simple explanation" for why rioting, looting and vandalism erupted across the nation last year, but was clear that "it wasn't about broken Britain".

"We have got to give young people a hope in life and we need to look at things like supporting youth clubs and other activities that will engage them in constructive behaviour," Dr Goodman told the Advertiser.

The professor pointed to the buzz generated by the Olympic Games as having reduced the threat of further unrest.

He said: "At the moment people feel as if they are a part of something.

"Stopping this sort of thing from happening again is about giving people something they can enjoy and believe in."

Dr Goodman also believes the excitement surrounding the Games could be harnessed as a long-lasting force for good.

He said: "What an opportunity we have now to put on more things for young people. This isn't about broken Britain – it is about the need to give people hope."

Glorious Games put the pressure on to boost support for youth sport

By Ruth McKee

IN the wake of a slew of gold medals rolling into the borough over the past two weeks, there has been growing demand to keep up the medal count at the next Olympic Games and beyond.

The government's announcement over the weekend that funding for elite athletes is guaranteed until 2016 came after Team GB finished third in the medal table – behind the USA and China – and here there are calls for more investment in youth sporting programmes.

Speaking to the Advertiser, George Demetriou, who was head of the Gifted and Talented Athletes Programme at Turnford School, in Cheshunt, where double gold medal-winning cyclist Laura Trott was a pupil, said: "Schools have to support elite young athletes and the government should support the schools to do that.

"Over the past two weeks we have seen the power of sport and the more we can get kids into sport, the more medals we can get of our own in future.

"It's about getting people involved in all the fun of sport. It develops students a lot quicker and really helps in all aspects of their life."

But despite widespread support for encouraging sport in primary schools, Prime Minister David Cameron has insisted that an Olympic legacy depends on ramping up competitiveness in schools and on teachers volunteering to coach after school – a position which has sparked unease among teaching unions.

A spokesman for the NASUWT said: "Teachers already do a lot of work outside the school day, and to blame teachers for a lack of sport in school is extremely unfair.

"Teachers report they are under a lot of pressure to deliver numeracy and literacy results because of performance tables.

"Primary schools can live or die by those results, so it is understandable if those subjects are sometimes the main focus of teaching."

Jan Hickman, Enfield Council's physical education adviser, agrees that getting young people inspired and enthused is key to future sporting success, rather than launching primary school children into a competitive arena straightaway.

"I think getting young people skilled is vital because that way, if you can go on to play well and feel good about yourself, you will continue to play and then compete," she told the Advertiser.

"It's about finding something for everybody. If that needs to be dancing, then great. We need to be able to tell young people it doesn't need to be hockey or netball. After all, we are all different."

Attention: DENTURE WEARERS Attention: DENTURE REPAIRS

If you are a denture wearer then this article may be of some interest to you!!

If you can relate to any of the following questions then it is a sign your denture needs attention:

DO YOU FIND YOUR DENTURES:

- Do not fit as well on your gums as they used to?
- Are they loose?
- Do not cut food as well as they used to?
- Do they make your face look older?
- Have discoloured despite meticulous cleaning or
- Cause discomfort/pain on chewing?

If any of the above breeds familiar territory then I may be able to alleviate some of these problems for you.

My name is Caroline Persaud I am a qualified CLINICAL DENTAL TECHNICIAN.

Many of you may be aware of Dental Technicians/Mechanics who repair and produce dentures for dentists, however, due to recent changes in the Dental law, a group of Dental Care Professionals known as Clinical Dental Technicians have been approved by the General Dental Council and can now see denture wearers who have no natural teeth remaining, directly without having to visit a dentist. The advantages to you, the patients, are numerous. You can be treated by a professional who has been clinically trained to undertake the impressions of your mouth and who also has the technical skill to manufacture your denture to meet your requirements.

A more direct, rapid and personalised service, that can be delivered to you in the comfort of your own home or at my day clinic in Edmonton.

School head Jed among the happy band of volunteers

OVER the past fortnight a Winchmore Hill headteacher has been meeting and greeting international athletes as part of his role as one of the celebrated Games Makers.

Jed McCarthy, head of Keble School, in Wades Hill, Winchmore Hill, was assigned to terminal three at Heathrow Airport during the Olympic fortnight to offer a helping hand to arriving athletes, coaches and dignitaries.

One of those he met was American fencer Mariel Zagunis, who carried the US flag during the opening ceremony, and he provided drinks for US shot putter Christian Cantwell when he arrived at the airport.

The headteacher also greeted Mexican footballers and members of the Ethiopian athletics team, directing them to their buses, as well as meeting the Crown Prince of Jordan, Hussein bin Abdullah.

Jed, 51, told the Advertiser: "It was brilliant. We weren't busy all of the time and it was exciting to be there and meet all those athletes.

"I wanted to volunteer because I was so excited about the Games and I wanted to be part of it."

Competitors and spectators have paid tribute to the inexhaustible energy, enthusiasm and good cheer of all the volunteers, who are said to have "made the Games".

Jed said they had received no instructions beforehand to be upbeat and enthusiastic – and that the vim and energy came naturally to all the Games Makers.

Making a difference: Jed McCarthy was one of the many volunteers

"We were told we would make the Games, but I think everyone just got more and more upbeat as things progressed," added Jed.

"We were all just happy to be a part of it. It is fantastic that everyone is saying good things about us."

Fogg delighted by swim

By Dominique Stafford

SWIMMER Dan Fogg admitted that he had exceeded his expectations by finishing fifth in the gruelling Olympic open water race in the Serpentine at Hyde Park on Friday.

The Edmonton-born 24-year-old, who came eighth in the 1,500m freestyle event in the pool earlier in the Games, had sealed his spot in Team GB for the 10k race by edging out Beijing silver medallist David Davies in the trials.

Despite this, Fogg was not expected to challenge for a medal. But he started brightly and initially slotted in behind German Thomas Lurz in second place.

However, the Briton soon began to drop down the field and found himself down in 16th at one stage – before picking up the pace and mounting a late charge up the field to end up in a highly creditable fifth place in a time of

ANDREW MILLIGAN/PA WIRE

In the swim: Dan Fogg powers his way to fifth place in the Serpentine one hour 50 minutes 37 seconds.

"I'm really happy with fifth, it's probably higher than I thought I could do," said Fogg. "I made a really good start, I was riding on Lurz's feet and then I backed off."

"I assumed there was a breakaway at some point and I had no idea what position I was in. It was a case of catching the person in front of me and then putting the hammer down for the line. I felt quite ropery at one point, but on the last lap I had quite a bit left and I was feeling good. It was just a case of trying to fight my way to the front.

"I was quite a bit behind and just picking them off one at a time. I just wish I was a bit closer to be in the race, but I'm really happy from where I came to get up to fifth."

Tunisia's Oussama Mellooui claimed gold in a time of 1:49:55.

Grabarz leaps to landmark bronze

DAVE THOMPSON/PA WIRE

ROBBIE Grabarz claimed a landmark Olympic bronze medal for Great Britain in the men's high jump.

The 25-year-old, left, who was born in Enfield, picked up Team GB's 48th medal of the Games at the Olympic stadium in Stratford last Tuesday night to ensure they passed the 47-medal haul from Beijing four years ago.

The reigning European champion cleared 2.25metres and 2.29m at his first attempt, but the next height of 2.33m proved too much as Grabarz failed with all three jumps.

But with only two men going clear at that height, and thanks to his first-time clearance at 2.29m, Grabarz picked up a bronze medal.

He was joined on the bottom step of the podium by Canada's Derek Drouin and Qatar's Mutaz Essa Barshim.

American Erik Kynard won silver with European indoor champion Ivan Ukhov, of Russia, leaping 2.38m to win gold.

Grabarz said: "I was slightly miffed because I should have jumped higher than that and should have got one better medal, but I got a bronze medal – it's incredible."

Enfield and Haringey Athletic Club's Margaret Adeoye failed to make the final of the women's 200m.

The 27-year-old set a new personal best of 22.94 seconds in qualifying for last Tuesday's semi-finals.

But she was some way short of that as she ran 23.28secs to finish seventh in the first of three high-quality semi-finals.

Charlotte becomes our second golden girl

By Dominique Stafford

CHARLOTTE Dujardin joined Laura Trott as a double gold medallist at the Olympic Games by producing a superb performance to triumph in the individual dressage competition.

The Enfield-born 26-year-old had claimed the highest individual score to help Britain win team gold last Tuesday. And that gave her the advantage of going last in the individual final in front of a capacity crowd at Greenwich Park on Thursday afternoon.

Dujardin found herself facing a tough task after Adelinde Cornelissen, of The Netherlands, posted a daunting score of 88.196 per cent.

However, the Briton managed to keep her cool aboard Valegro and – performing to a backdrop of music including Land of Hope and Glory and the movie themes of The Great Escape and Live And Let Die – set a new Olympic record of 90.089 per cent to seal gold and become the first female British rider to claim two golds at the same Games.

"It's unbelievable," she said. "I've always known that my horse could achieve this, but with the atmosphere and expectations, actually doing it is something else."

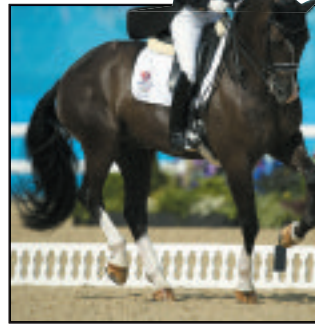

"It's been amazing since I got the phone call to say I'd made the team."

"Not many people get this chance and to go to the Olympics with a fantastic horse like Valegro and win doesn't feel real."

"I can't believe that it was only last January that we did our first Grand Prix together, and now we have two Olympic gold medals."

"He felt a bit tired but he gave me his all. He's never let me down – he's the horse of a lifetime."

In common with the rest of Team GB's Olympic champions, Dujardin had the honour of having postboxes painted gold by the Royal Mail as a reward for her success – with her first triumph leading to a gold postbox in Colman Parade, Southbury Road, Enfield Town.

Dujardin's win in the individual event led to her second gold postbox being painted in Gloucester, where she now lives and trains.

Medal winner Lutalo proves a point

LUTALO Muhammad vindicated his selection for London 2012 after becoming the first British man to win an Olympic taekwondo medal.

The Middlesex University student was controversially selected for the under 80kg category ahead of fellow Brit Aaron Cook, ranked world number one going into the Games.

And although the 21-year-old lost in the quarter-finals to Nicholas Garcia Hemme, he won a place in the repechage thanks to the Spaniard making the final.

Muhammad, who grew up in Walthamstow, east London, took full advantage as he defeated

Arman Yeremyan, of Armenia, 9-3 to win a bronze medal.

The 6ft 2in fighter had earlier beaten Yousef Karami, of Iran, 11-7 in his first repechage contest to set up the decider with Yeremyan.

Muhammad had begun his Olympic campaign with a 7-1 win over Tajikistan's Farkhod Negmatov at the ExCeL Arena on Friday.

European bronze medallist Garcia Hemme proved a tougher prospect in the quarter-finals and Muhammad lost 7-3 to the eventual silver medallist. However, Muhammad made the most of his reprieve to claim a medal, right.

BACK 2 SCHOOL

Help your child be well-rested for learning.

This summer has not been too bad this year but we know it's time for the kids to go back to school as they are starting to get grumpy with each other. So we have got their feet measured for new shoes & new kit for games, new pens & pencils and of course the new smart uniforms (well at least for one day). So as parents our job is done – it's now up to the teachers or is it?

So as parents it's our job to get their sleeping habits back on track. As adults we know the feeling of a long hard day if we have not had a good night's sleep & rest. Getting them back into some sort of schedule will make it easier on them to study & learn. Poor sleep leads to tiredness & fatigue can lead to problems with school work, mood swings and health. Here are some tips that might help:

1. Don't use the weekends to catch up on their sleep once your child's sleep schedule is on track, stick to it as best you can.
2. Once you have established a bedtime, add in a routine "quiet time". This allows you & your child to unwind and calm down. Also routines could be helped by including relaxing activities, such as bath time and bedtime stories for young children or reading time for older children. Your mind tells your body when to settle down – the more relaxed you are the better night's sleep you'll have.
3. Always try to keep a calm sleeping environment – dark room, not too hot. And obviously a good comfortable bed. After that, try to avoid modern day temptations which easily encourage you to stay up later – TV, iPod, laptop, video games, and texting. Keep as many of these out of the bedroom as possible to avoid distractions.
4. Whenever possible, avoid eating late, and always avoid eating large meals before bedtime. It's hard to sleep on a full stomach straight after a big meal. If you have to eat late, eat light.
5. Avoid caffeine based drinks – which includes tea and obviously coffee and colas, and other fizzy drinks before bedtime as this will hamper a good deep sleep.
6. All the above will help you greatly to get to sleep and get a good night's rest ready for the next days lessons. But, if your child is sleeping on an inferior or worn out / collapsed or broken bed, do not be surprised, if their sleep, and in turn, their studies suffer. Your children are a miniature version of you. And again, think how badly you perform the next day, and how grumpy you can be after a bad night's sleep. So, when was the last time you checked / slept in your child's bed to see how good it was? No wonder they always want to get into yours! If it's not good enough for you, then it's not good enough for them.

Death of writer in road tragedy

By Mary McConnell

TRIBUTES have been pouring in following the death of an 82-year-old amateur writer, who died in a car crash as he walked home on Friday night.

Norman William Looker, known to everyone as Bill, was knocked down by a black Mercedes at the junction of the A10 and Bury Street at about 10.30pm.

A man in his late 30s has been arrested and released on bail in connection with the incident.

Mr Looker, of Forest Road, in Edmonton, had attended a session of the Enfield Writers' Workshop, which he co-founded 40 years ago, on Friday evening.

Group members meet at Salisbury House, in Bury Street West, Edmonton, every Friday night.

Eric Savage, the group's treasurer, said Mr Looker, who trained at the former Hornsey School of Art, worked as a signwriter and was a keen painter, was "very outgoing and easy-going".

He added: "He always took things as they came and never worried much. He was a very interesting writer – he wrote many short stories."

"He had a very good knowledge of the area and he was a character. He didn't go with the usual flow of things. We are all completely shocked by this as he was with us on Friday night. He walked home as he always did."

Mr Looker, who was born in Ponders End and lived most of his life in Edmonton, was a member of another amateur literary group, Salisbury House Poets.

Anthony Fisher, the group's co-founder, said that Mr Looker had a great understanding and knowledge of poetry and that he wrote poetry and composed songs of his own.

"He was a very principled man," said Mr Fisher. "Bill didn't own a phone. If you wanted to contact him, you had to do so by letter."

"He had a brilliant knowledge of Edmonton and what it was like during the war. He will be missed by everyone."

Police from the road death investigation unit at Chadwell Heath are investigating the incident. Anyone with information is asked to call 020 8597 4874 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

The ADVERTISER COMMENT

All schools must be given a sporting chance of success

THE government has committed itself to two extra years of funding for elite athletes.

Of course, we want to recreate medal glory in Rio de Janeiro in four years' time.

We don't want to be another Australia – leaping to greatness on home turf but once the cameras and tourists have packed up and left the funding and support for home-grown talent mysteriously dries up.

But what about where Jess Ennis, Bradley Wiggins and others began? What about those vital years spent running around playing fields and being given the chance to learn and enjoy a sport before being launched into the heights of competition?

This government has axed any targets for how much PE should be taught each week in our primary schools.

That begs the question – what do primary schools desperate to drive up literacy and numeracy results do? Without targets for how much PE they should include, it is too tempting to abandon what some see as merely "playtime" in favour of extra reading lessons or more maths classes.

But then how is it fair to blame teachers for a lack of sporting support in school when they are merely trying to jump through the performance-related hoops the government has laid down?

And what is fair about then putting the onus on parents? Can this government really not conceive that most families do not have the time or resources to cart their children off to a range of after-school activities every day?

Some have argued that too many privately educated athletes featured in the medal table.

Without making it a truly level playing field with resources and opportunities for everyone, all we will ever be is a nation that came third in the medal table one year and then squandered it all in an ideological bonfire.

Chase Farm has been lifesaver for husband

WHILE I was on a routine visit to Chase Farm, my beloved husband Gerard was taken poorly and taken to the hospital's accident and emergency department.

Firstly, I want to say a very big thank you to all the staff who helped us even though they were busy.

They saw him straightaway, even when several ambulances arrived with other casualties which made them even busier.

They still went out of their way to provide my husband with a quick and very kind and convenient service from triage to cubicle, to bloods taken, and ECGs carried out.

When Chase Farm loses the A&E and maternity units, it will be a sad day for all of us and it is a disgusting thing to do.

North Middlesex will be so much busier, so let's hope that they will be ready.

If Messrs Cameron and this horrid government actually cared about what people thought about the jewel in our crown and the envy of the world, our beloved National Health Service, they would leave it alone, fund it properly and stop the asset stripping of it.

Without it, I would not have my beloved husband alive today, and together we recently celebrated 20 wonderful years of marriage despite his disabilities.

Proud of plan to develop Enfield Lock

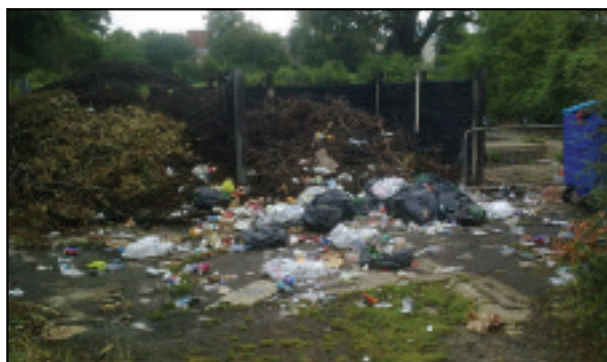

WE are proud Enfield Council, in these difficult financial times, is planning a multi-million-pound investment in a brand-new, purpose-built library, health centre and community space in Enfield Lock.

There has not been anything like this kind of regeneration and investment in north-eastern Enfield for many years.

This is a result of the commitment the ward councillors gave to the people of Enfield Lock, Turkey Street and Highway that we would regenerate their area and give the residents of this part of the borough the facilities they deserve.

We can assure you that the council is committed to ensuring an improved library experience with at least the same amount of usable public space as in the existing library and additional computer/internet facilities to support our children and young people with the latest technology.

Councillors Nneka Keazor, Ozzie Uzoanya and Christine Hamilton, Enfield Lock

Rubbish scene now the norm

A FEW years ago, the rangers were removed from our parks.

This year, the regular park keepers seem to have vanished too. What is the result? This picture speaks for itself.

This is the middle of Enfield Town Park. It shows rubbish left out in black sacks for a few nights and scattered all over by vermin.

Readers may be doubly surprised since the council repeatedly tells residents never to leave black bags out overnight precisely because this happens – perhaps the council should practise what it preaches.

No doubt it will plead poverty and cutbacks but this is not a result of penny-pinching, it's a result of a failure to dispose of refuse, properly and effectively.

Cleaning this mess up is going to take time, time is money and the residents of Enfield will be out of pocket for this.

I walk through the Town Park every day and sadly scenes like this are the norm, not the exception.

Readers might like to email me (paul@paulsmith.org.uk) their own examples of neglect around Enfield – I imagine this is not the only one.

Tower blocks not much fun

YOUR article about the Alma Estate (Advertiser, July 25) shows that Enfield Council took a long time to understand that high-rise tower blocks do not offer the high standard of home accommodation expected by prospective occupants.

How long is it going to be before this council understands other tower blocks suffer from similar symptoms?

It is not surprising that elected members of the council choose to reside elsewhere with a quiet environment and away from food aromas, the noise of clicking high heels and screaming lads.

Paving work was essential

RE: John Rook's letter (Advertiser, August 8) complaining about improvements to Fillebrook Avenue and the surrounding streets.

This scheme is part of the £9million investment in roads and paving taken out by this administration.

The paving was in need of improvement to stop trip hazards and the road surface was in need of attention, as was nearby Herongate Close.

The new grass areas he mentions make the scheme more sustainable than previous works as rain water will now run away to the aquifer rather than run away down a gully.

I am glad to tell Mr Rook the road he wishes to be resurfaced (Camarnon Avenue) is indeed scheduled to be done in the later part of this financial year at an estimated cost of £54,000.

Jailed Asbo man's ban is extended beyond release

By Ruth McKee

A MAN, who was the first person in Britain to be sent to prison for breaking a "gang Asbo", has had the injunction against him extended while still in jail, barring him from associating with known gang members on his release.

Dylan Martin, of Welby Close, Edmonton, was 19 when he was jailed for 15 months in February after breaching the terms of an order handed down from the council banning him from going into certain areas and socialising with known gang members.

He was sentenced after he was found guilty of three breaches of the ban – "congregating in a group in public in an intimidating manner, acting or inciting others to act in an antisocial manner and associating in a public place with a number of listed gangs and named individuals".

Now the injunction has been extended until May next year.

The breaches occurred during a street brawl outside the 1920 Club in Great Sutton Street, Clerkenwell, on November 3 last year.

Passing sentence, Judge Michael Nicholson said: "These are not minor breaches of the injunction. There was a major incident on the night in question.

"Martin had flouted the terms of the order before, and on July 28 last year he was given a 14-month suspended sentence for seven breaches over four days. Prior to that he was found to have breached the terms of his interim injunction twice in a case heard on May 5."

Martin will not be released from prison until April 2013. Enfield Council and the Metropolitan Police argued that the injunction would have to remain in place after his release to bar him from any possible gang association.

Cabinet member for community well-being and public health Christine Hamilton said: "This is great news for the community as Dylan Martin thought he could harass and terrorise them. It sends out a message that we're not going to let individuals like him flout the law.

"We'd rather work with people and help them change their lifestyles, but if they refuse to work with us our message to criminals and thugs is that we'll find a way of stopping your illegal behaviour and if that means sending you to prison, so be it."

Superintendent Paul Healy, from Enfield Police, added: "This case demonstrates the serious views the court takes when an individual breaches their order, given the length of the sentence imposed. This should serve as a deterrent to those who currently have an injunction imposed on them or individuals who are engaging in activity that will subject them to such an order."

In prison: Dylan Martin, serving 15 months

Youth centres get together at camp

YOUNG people driven apart by the intense postcode rivalry that divides Edmonton are having their prejudices challenged this week at a summer camp in Epping Forest.

The four-day camp at Gilwell Park is a chance for 120 teenagers from across Enfield to set aside the postcode and gang rivalries that have sparked violence in the borough and focus instead on "fun, adventure and learning".

The mini-summer camp was the brainchild of young people from the Craig Park and Croyland youth centres in Edmonton, based in the rival postcodes of N18 and N9 respectively, who set up the Unity Youth project to help young people in their area overcome the intense gang associations that stop some people travelling between boroughs.

The 13 to 19-year-olds at this week's camp come from ten different youth projects across Enfield.

And an Enfield Council spokesman insisted that the four-day camp is about promoting community harmony between some of the young people who hail from rival areas.

Ayfer Orhan, cabinet member for children and youth, said: "This summer event brings many young people together, learning new skills and trying new challenging activities.

"They are taking part in team building and communication exercises, team sports and adventurous activities."

She added that young people attending the camp would gain recognised national accreditations as youth leaders or as participants.

One of the camp leaders, Ersin Ramiz, who manages Ponders End Youth Centre, said: "The success of this camp is to get young people to expand their social skills beyond their immediate friends and learn how to interact with new people and how to exchange ideas.

"Working in groups, young people are able to find new interests and support each other."

Clampdown on antisocial behaviour comes into force

POLICE and council officers are joining forces in a bid to rid Enfield Town of youngsters behaving antisocially.

An order introduced on August 3, a year after the riots which rocked the town centre last summer, will enable police officers to tell people in groups of two or more to disperse from the area and not return for 24 hours.

Those who fail to follow the order could face arrest and officers will also be able to remove and take home anybody under the age of 16 who is not in the care of an adult between 9pm until 6am.

Christine Hamilton, cabinet member for community well-being, insists that young people will not be discouraged from visiting Enfield

Town and says that the move is designed to keep troublemakers away.

"This dispersal order sends a clear message that we will not tolerate unacceptable behaviour and we will work to protect businesses in our town centres from crime and disorder," she said.

The dispersal order will be reviewed fortnightly to check on its necessity and effectiveness and is expected to continue until February 3, 2013.

Superintendent Paul Healy, from Enfield Police, said: "This is a tried and tested tactic that we will continue to use in appropriate circumstances."

Plans for library community centre on public display

RESIDENTS are being asked to give their opinion on Enfield Council's new plans for a joint service centre at Ordnance Road Library during two drop-in sessions next week.

Plans for the centre, which will comprise the library, a GP surgery, a dentist surgery and a community space, will be on display at the library, in Hertford Road, Freezywater, on Monday from 3pm to 6pm and on Tuesday from 10am to 1pm.

Visitors will be able to view the plans for the site, floor plans and 3D pictures of the project. Partners involved in the scheme will be on hand to listen to comments and answer questions.

For those unable able to make the sessions, the plans will remain on display at the library.

The proposals are being sent to the council's planning committee in November and building work is set to begin on the site early next year. It is due to be completed in 2014.

Bambos Charalambous, cabinet member for culture, leisure, youth and localism, said: "We are determined to provide a better library experience with at least the same amount of useable public space as the current library. There will also be Wi-Fi, more computers and quiet study areas added to make it a fantastic new space."

"We welcome residents' feedback on the design of this exciting and much-needed centre and are certain that seeing the plans for the site first-hand will generate a degree of interest and excitement about the project."

Couple in shock after finding cat shot dead

By Mary McConnell

A COUPLE have been left devastated after their cat was shot dead.

Barrie and Carole Owen, of Onslow Gardens, Winchmore Hill, returned from a trip to the shops on Thursday afternoon to find the lifeless body of the cat, Cheeky, lying on the floor of their garage.

After turning her over, the couple saw a bullet wound in Cheeky's side and a visit to the vet confirmed their worst fears.

"An X-ray showed that she had been shot with an air rifle," said 67-year-old Mr Owen.

"We think she was shot outside and then crawled into the garage to die."

Mr Owen said he did not think it was an accident because Cheeky was killed by a single shot to the stomach.

"Everyone in the area knew her," he added.

"She was quite a character. She was a treasured and much-loved cat."

"We are shattered and devastated. The cat used to go into our neighbours' homes and the local children knew her."

"Everyone is shocked and devastated – we've had four cards of condolences. We absolutely idolised her."

The Owens have looked after Cheeky ever since she turned up on the doorstep of their home on Christmas Day 2005 when she was a kitten.

"We put posters up asking if anyone was missing a cat but she didn't seem to want to be looked after by anybody but us and she has stuck with us ever since," said Mr Owen.

According to a spokeswoman, police inquiries are continuing. No arrests have been made in connection with the incident.

Mugger alert near station

POLICE have stepped up patrols around Oakwood Underground station after three women were mugged there in the space of nine days.

The same man is believed to be behind the attacks. He is described as white, aged 20 to 25 and 6ft tall.

A woman handed over £15 cash after the man threatened her with a knife at about 9.30pm on August 2.

An hour later another woman was kicked to the ground by the suspect. Her phone broke during the attack and the man ran off empty-handed.

A third victim was approached from behind by the suspect at 12.45am last Friday. He grabbed her bag and a passer-by shouted at the man, who dropped the bag and ran off.

Police have stepped up plain clothes and high-visibility patrols and officers are warning commuters to be on their guard.

They are advising them not to use a mobile phone immediately after coming out of the station and not to text while they are walking along the street.

Anyone with information relating to the robberies is asked to call police on 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

OPINION

Michael Lavender

Enfield Conservative group leader

Council has gone from having £96m in bank to negative cash flow

WELL, I've got some good news and some bad news. First, the good news: Remember 2010, when the Labour government left the taxpayer spending £120million every day just paying the interest on the debt?

Between 2010 and 2012, public sector net borrowing has fallen by 2.8 percentage points, from 11.1 per cent of gross domestic product, to 8.3 per cent of GDP.

This is a fall of 25 per cent in just two years.

It still means we are borrowing money but we are borrowing less each year than we were two years ago.

Remember that the taxpayer has not even started to repay the debt yet. Reducing the budget deficit means exactly that – it means the amount of debt is increasing more slowly, it does not mean that we have started to pay any money back.

Well, that's the good news. And if that's good news, well, what's the bad news, I hear you say?

Remember 2010, when in Enfield the Labour opposition accused the previous Conservative administration of leaving £96million in the council coffers unspent?

Two years later and notwithstanding the government providing a grant each year to keep council tax increases at nought per cent, despite numerous one-off grants (in particular an £11million grant for new school places) and despite the sale of tens of millions of pounds worth of assets, the council has announced that it will have a negative cash flow by February next year.

I must admit to being wrong. I thought the Labour administration would have bankrupted the council in four years. It has done it in just under three. That must be a new record only be a personal best, but also an Olympic and world record.

And who will the council blame for this? Let's wait for the lame excuses of government cuts and everyone but itself.

Vicki Pite

Environment matters

Olympic champion cyclists proved that making small changes really does work

LIKE others, I have been captivated by the wonderful spectacle of the London Olympics – the great performances, fantastic teamwork, commitment and hard work.

I'm struck that commentators are seeking wider lessons from the experience and wonder what the environmental lessons are – above and beyond the example of a genuine global union of common aims and values.

Firstly, the overwhelming success of Team GB's cyclists, largely attributed to a pursuit of "marginal gains" in all areas which challenges the scepticism of those who argue that small lifestyle changes to protect the environment are pointless.

Team GB proves the opposite. Small, isolated gains may not be decisive, but collectively can strike gold.

If we each attended to our environmentally unfriendly habits and committed to incremental improvements in all areas, the overall effect could be an Olympian performance locally and globally. Furthermore, like our Olympic cyclists, we should embrace total honesty about poor environmental performance and deal with it fearlessly.

The second lesson I draw concerns legacy, ensuring that future generations profit from today's efforts. The Olympic stadium and athletes' village must benefit the local community and not become a costly white elephant despoiling the environment.

Furthermore, London 2012 reinforces the truth of "a sound mind in a healthy body". Our children, thus equipped, cannot help but be good for the future of our planet.

So I applaud our council's investments in Enfield's green spaces and sporting facilities – the transformation of Queen Elizabeth Stadium and Albany Park Leisure Centre, installation of outdoor gym equipment – building on an Olympic vision which successfully increased pupils' participation in school sport from 20 per cent to 80 per cent.

That was due to [the previous Labour] government investment in local sports coordinators and the requirement pupils should receive two hours of PE a week.

I urge the current government to reconsider its decision to abandon these policies.

Here Comes the Sun ... Are you Ready?
Get Your Body Back In Shape with Real Results, Real Quick ...

WANT to lose weight and tone up in time for your summer holiday? Or just given birth and want to get back into those skinny jeans?

Whatever your goal, Core Exercise Clinics have developed a brand new plan that's perfect for you... the Body Back in Shape plan.

Whether it be a 1-1 personalised sessions, a 2 month package with full access to our classes that suits you or a longer 4 or 7 month package for that lifestyle change – you are the one that can decide exactly how you want to get that summer body, as all of the offerings at the clinic can be tailored to precisely what you need.

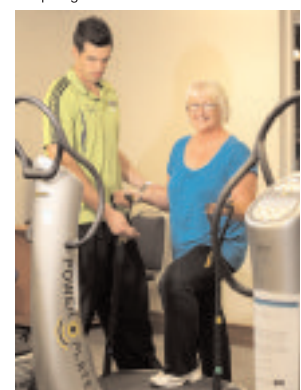

Under the guidance of a team of highly trained specialists, inclusive of a Pre & Post-natal Exercise Specialists, you will firstly undergo a Health and Lifestyle assessment in order to identify the changes that need to be made in order to create a whole new you.

The Body Back in Shape plans include a tailor-made exercise programme designed entirely for you and that involve you using the most up-to-date fitness technology in order for you to reach your identified goals in a short space of time. Our Technogym® Wellness System allows the expert team at the clinic to design you the most efficient calorie-burning cardio workout, preventing you from spending soul-destroying sessions pounding on a treadmill and without actually achieving any results.

In addition to this, you can gain full access to the Power Plate® facilities at the clinic. Performing simple exercises on the machine's vibrating platform helps you to specifically target those problem areas, whether you want to have the confidence to wear sleeveless tops this summer without those 'bingo wings' waving, or get into your bikini with a once-again flat stomach and your bottom and thighs looking toned and firm. Power Plate® will not only help you to tone up, improve metabolism and accelerate weight loss – it will also bring about a reduction in cellulite and a revival of dull skin by improving circulation. Just three sessions a week are enough to see results, making it the fastest and most effective way to truly get your Body Back in Shape.

To get started on any of our programmes, call now on 020 8342 4250 to book your initial assessment. These brand new plans are only available for a limited period of time... So call early to avoid disappointment and let Core Exercise Clinics help you to get your Body Back in Shape right now.

Leading names jazz up the bill as music festival returns

By Indiah Miller

THE second Highgate Jazz Festival looks set to build on the roaring success of last year's event with some of the best musicians on the scene featuring on the bill.

Held across four venues in Highgate, each night will culminate in a jam session that will continue until the early hours at The Caipirinha Jazz Bar in Archway Road.

Highlights this year include Jacqui Dankworth and Charlie Wood, featuring Chris Allard, regarded as one of the UK's leading jazz singers.

Also on the bill are Gareth Williams Power Trio featuring Laurence Cottle, plus Ian Thomas, who has been described as "one of the most intensely creative, dynamic and exciting performers in the UK".

Starting on August 25, artists will perform at The Bull, in North Hill, Lauderdale House and The Old Crown, both in Highgate Hill, as well as The Caipirinha.

The festival was founded by saxophonist and Highgate resident Brandon Allen and he will be headlining on Sunday night with his band The Quentin Collins/Brandon Allen Quartet.

Brandon said: "Last year the turnout was far more than I expected, so I thought we had to do it again.

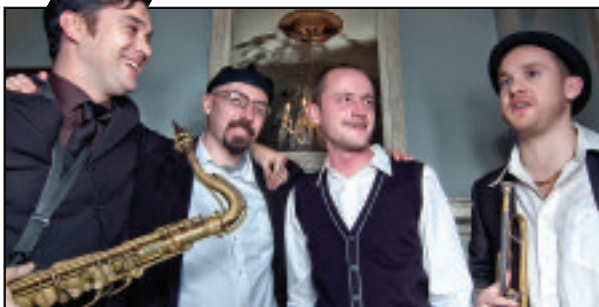

"We have more venues on board and there will be shows in the four corners of Highgate.

"The reaction and response from people who attended last year showed there is definitely an appetite for us to build the festival and we want to make it an annual event."

Other artists set to play include Jim Watson, Steve Fishwick, Carl Orr and Clark Tracey, along with many others across the bank holiday weekend.

Tickets are £22 for Saturday, and £25 for Sunday and Monday. They can be bought at any of the four venues.

Day and full festival passes are available at www.brandonallen.co.uk where a full festival schedule can also be found.

On the bill: Clockwise from top, The Quentin Collins/Brandon Allen Quartet, Gareth Williams and Jacqui Dankworth

Free bag incentive for early birds at creative market

A CREATIVE market later this month will showcase goods made by people from across Enfield.

Taking place at a new venue, the car park of The Co-operative Food store, in Hertford Road, Enfield Wash, the market is run by business group Enterprise Enfield.

It aims to celebrate the borough's creativity, craftsmanship and business flare.

A number of stalls will offer a wide range of items including handmade jewellery, arts and crafts, wedding decorations, clothing and cakes.

The family-friendly market will have free face-painting for children, and visitors who spend more than £5 at any of the creative stalls will receive a free tote bag while stocks last.

Marketing director Sue King said:

"This is the third creative market we've held - the first two were in Ponders End, this is the first in the Co-op car park.

"There will be 16 stalls all featuring home-made items."

The market will take place from 1pm until 4pm at the Co-op car park in Hertford Road.

There are also plans to hold a market close to Christmas. Anyone who would like to take part should call 020 8443 5457.

Colourful characters: The Wind In The Willows is coming to Lauderdale House this month

Wind In The Willows has twist in the tail

THE Wind In The Willows is coming to Lauderdale House this month as part of its outdoor theatre season.

Kenneth Grahame's classic tale of riverbank animals has been converted for the stage by Shooting Stars Theatre, which has just enjoyed a successful run at the Bath and Stratford Fringe.

It picked up some rave reviews and was awarded the best theatrical production and best children's show prizes.

The outdoor setting, in Waterlow Park, Highgate, is perfect for families to enjoy a picnic on the lawn while all the action unfolds on stage.

The story of how Ratty, Mole and Badger tame the loopy Toad of Toad Hall has been a children's favourite since it was written by Grahame in 1908.

But this production promises a few unexpected twists and quirks while staying true to the spirit of the original story.

The Wind In The Willows is being performed on August 26 and 27 at 2.30pm.

Lauderdale House is offering a range of workshops to keep kids busy over the summer holidays, including jewellery-making from August 21 to 26.

Saturday morning kids' shows will resume from next month, with a Mini Mozart musical workshop special on September 15.

Tickets for The Wind In The Willows are £6.50/£4.50. Call the box office on 020 8348 8716 to book.

Visit www.lauderdalehouse.org.uk for more information about the show and the workshops

Stay out of the water! Poisonous algae found in lake

VISITORS to Grovelands Park are being warned to stay away after a poisonous algae was found there.

The water in the park, in The Bourne, Southgate, has tested positive for blue-green algae, a poisonous bacteria that can cause serious health problems for humans and animals.

Anyone who comes into contact with the water may develop symptoms including diarrhoea, skin irritation, rash, sore throat, sore red eyes, swollen lips, nausea and vomiting.

The symptoms do subside after one to two days, but long-term use of the water can result in liver damage and other serious illnesses.

Enfield Council's cabinet member for environment Chris Bond said: "We are working with the Environment Agency to control and resolve this outbreak, but in the meantime we have sealed off the lake and erected warning signs to protect park users and pets.

"The safety and wellbeing of park users is our number one priority and I hope people will bear with us while we resolve this problem."

Anyone visiting the park is advised to avoid contact with the blue-green algae along the shoreline and should not swim or wade in the water or let pets do the same.

People are also advised that fish which have been caught in the lake should not be eaten.

Dying trees to be cut down after soap star's car crushed

By Mary McConnell

MORE than 30 trees are to be felled in Bush Hill Park following the revelation that a TV soap star had her car crushed by a falling tree.

Council chiefs decided to order a survey of trees in the area after a dying tree fell on Diane Parish's car in May.

The actress, who lives in Bush Hill Park, plays Denise Johnson in EastEnders.

The survey was due to be carried out in the winter, but the council decided it was necessary to check for decaying trees sooner rather than later.

The trees are expected to be felled in the next week or so and sites for replacements are to be identified.

Chris Bond, cabinet member for environment, said: "We do not want to cut down these trees, but the bottom line is they cannot be saved. "We need to remove them before they fall down and potentially injure someone.

"This is a proactive, sensible and proportionate response and we'll be replacing as many of these specimens as we can with good-quality trees to maintain the green and pleasant nature of the area."

Anyone with questions about the tree removal programme can contact the highways department on 020 8379 1000.

Home-moving hurdles made easy...

We've been training for years for this moment... The moment that you decide to move home. Our highly experienced teams are making sure that we continue to perform in spite of market forces. This has resulted in our Exchanges being up by 18% on 2011 so far this year and the value of these combined properties is up by 20%. This shows that we're successfully negotiating more hurdles to a happy move and we'd love to help you to achieve the same this summer.

A CARING, STIMULATING AND NURTURING ENVIRONMENT

Grange Park Prep School is a school for girls founded in 1924. Girls benefit from a caring, stimulating and nurturing environment encouraging them to become confident, independent learners achieving high academic standards.

At GPPS there is a great community atmosphere where each child is well known by every member of staff and recognised as an individual. In a family atmosphere such as this the children are happy and therefore flourish academically. Before leaving GPPS nearly every girl will have been given a responsible role at some level, instilling in them an ingrained confidence and preparing them for today's challenges.

Film students get animated over their emissions movie

ANIMATION students from the College of Haringey, Enfield and North East London have produced a film about the effects of harmful emissions.

It was commissioned by Haringey Council and funded by the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs.

The film is aimed at drivers who collect children from school by car and will be shown in 36 GP surgeries, four schools and Wood Green Shopping City for three months during the summer.

The students, Ngozi Chukwukere, Mine Mahmutg and Nicole Moloney, who are all studying animation BTEC level 3, said they were delighted with the results.

Mine said: "Having the opportunity to work on a video for Transport for London before we've even completed the course is an amazing opportunity."

"It allowed us to gain commercial experience with a high-profile organisation and have a 'real' piece of work in our portfolio, which we're hoping will impress employers."

Nicole added: "It was a real learning curve and good experience dealing with clients and delivering to a brief."

"These types of projects are why I love studying at the college, and why I've decided to stay on next year and study for my HNC rather than go to university."

Councillor Nilgun Canver, Haringey cabinet member for the environment, said: "This film helps us raise awareness of air pollution issues in a format agreeable to a wider public."

"Poor air quality can contribute to heart and lung problems, such as asthma, especially in young children whose vital organs are developing."

The film, which has been shared with other local authorities across the country, follows an earlier project delivered by animation student Nkakini Echeonwu in 2011, which promoted Haringey Council's air pollution text messaging service.

Anyone interested in studying animation at the college, including its new creative HNC, should visit www.conel.ac.uk or call the course information line on 020 8442 3055.

Adult learning opportunities

THERE is a chance to enrol for an exciting range of courses being offered by Haringey Council's adult learning service over the coming months.

There are daytime, evening and weekend courses on offer – with subjects ranging from creative arts and languages to sessions on bookkeeping and computing.

Enrolment starts on Tuesday, September 4, and will run until September 15. Courses start in September, October and November. They are open to anyone aged 19 and over.

For more information call 020 8489 2500/2596, visit the adult learning service page at www.haringey.gov.uk or pick up a prospectus at local libraries.

There is a ten per cent discount for Haringey registered carers.

Lifetime can help you fit into a job

TOMORROW will be a nerve-racking day for many young people across the UK as they open their A-level results.

A recent survey by www.lifetimetraining.co.uk has revealed that 43 per cent of 16 to 18-year-olds in London, currently in school or sixth form college, feel pessimistic, nervous or scared about their future job prospects.

Leaving school and deciding what to do next can be a daunting prospect.

However, there are plenty of exciting career opportunities out there for young people – especially in the sport and fitness industry.

Amelia Henriot, 20, from Edgware, completed her level 2 fitness instructor course through the Lifetime Fitness Academy and is now a successful fitness instructor at her local health club.

"University just didn't feel like the right route for me," said Amelia. "I'm so glad I discovered an alternative career path through Lifetime."

"I was able to learn on the job and take my first steps into the working world."

"Working as an instructor in the fitness industry is a dream come true."

There are various programmes, like the Lifetime Fitness Academy, which will help provide school leavers with a clear development path along with pre-employment skills training and support into a relevant job.

Although the fitness industry is continuing to grow, regardless of the current economic downturn, young people do still not recognise the career opportunities the industry has to offer.

When surveyed, only 11 per cent said that the excitement around the London 2012 Olympics had inspired them to look for a job within the sport, health and fitness industry.

Nigel Wallace, development director at Lifetime, said: "These young people are the future generation and therefore it's our duty to encourage them to be more optimistic when it comes to thinking about jobs and careers.

"We can do this by increasing awareness of the opportunities that do exist, such as vocational, on-the-job training."

"We are working in partnership with many employers in the fitness and leisure sector to deliver apprenticeship programmes."

"Last year, more than 920 people aged 16 to 24 were helped into employment via this route. There are plenty of career options out there. The problem lies in trying to make more young people aware of how to access them."

Lifetime has academies running across the country every month so you can book onto a course near you.

CLEARING advice

1 Get help

Talk to a careers adviser or Connexions adviser at your school, college or local careers office. They can help you decide the courses and subjects most suitable for you.

2 Look at the vacancies

Find out which courses have vacancies. Official vacancy lists are published on the UCAS website and in The Daily Telegraph newspaper. You don't have to stick to your original subject choices – there may be other areas which might suit you better.

The lists are updated continually, but not all universities, colleges and courses have vacancies in clearing, and some vacancies may be filled quickly. At the same time, a course that is full may have vacancies later.

3 Contact universities and colleges that interest you

Once you have your exam results, you can contact universities and colleges about the possibility of gaining a place through clearing.

If you declined an offer from a university or college earlier in the year you can contact it again to see if they will accept you, either for the same course or any other.

The best way to find out more about a university or college, its accommodation and social life, is to visit. Most are happy to meet applicants and show them around.

4 Clearing number

Your clearing number is displayed on the welcome page and choices page in Track.

When you contact a university or college they will ask for your clearing number to confirm they can consider you in clearing. They can then view your complete application immediately on UCAS' secure online system.

5 Accepting an offer

When you are speaking to different universities and colleges, you may be informally offered several places. You will need to decide which offer you want to accept.

6 Adding a clearing choice

If a university or college provisionally offers you a place in clearing, they will give you a date by which you must enter their course details on Track.

If you want to be formally considered, you need to click on your add clearing choice button and enter the course details.

You can only enter details for one choice.

Only enter a clearing choice if the university or college has provisionally offered you a place on the course and you want to accept it.

7 Your place is confirmed

UCAS will let the university or college know that you have entered their details on Track.

If the university or college accepts you, the acceptance will be displayed in the choices section of Track and you will receive a letter to let you know your place is confirmed.

If you are not accepted, the add clearing choice link in Track will be reactivated.

Paralympian gets honorary degree

WORLD record-breaking rower Tom Aggar has received a boost ahead of this month's London Paralympic Games after being awarded an honorary degree by Middlesex University.

The reigning Paralympic and world champion in men's single rowing was chosen for his sporting achievements.

Aggar won gold in the single sculls when rowing made its debut at the Beijing Paralympics in 2008.

And he is a firm favourite for to retain his title, having not been beaten in five years of competition.

Despite Aggar's rapid success in rowing, he only took up the sport as part of his rehabilitation for a spinal injury he sustained as a student.

He used a rowing machine which uses electrical currents to activate nerves in parts of the body affected by paralysis.

Aggar later progressed to use this machine for his training and to make his competitive debut at the 2006 National Indoor Championship.

The following year he won the gold medal in 1000m men's single sculls at the World Rowing Championships, setting a new world record in the process.

Aggar has defended this title three times, setting more world records along the way.

Middlesex University vice-chancellor Michael Driscoll said: "Tom is an extraordinary athlete whose courage is an inspiration to all our students."

"His discipline and passion for sport have seen him overcome obstacles to attain incredible success and set world records, and Middlesex wishes him the best of luck in the upcoming Paralympics."

Aggar said after last month's ceremony: "I'm extremely proud and honoured to receive this honorary doctorate from Middlesex University."

"It comes at a time of much anticipation and excitement before the Paralympic Games."

"Although my mind is firmly fixed on achieving in only a few weeks' time, to be recognised in this way at this time is incredible and I feel extremely privileged."

Aggar, who grew up in Barnet, collected his honorary degree at a ceremony at the university's Hendon campus.

Free laptops

BARNET and Southgate College is offering a free laptop as an incentive to sign up for its foundation degree in early childhood studies.

Are you a Level 3 early years practitioner and want to develop your skills and qualifications?

This could be the perfect course for you.

Funding is now available and you can also save money thanks to the new reduced course fee.

There is also a free laptop for all enrolled HE students (terms and conditions apply).

Anyone interested should attend one of the interview and enrollment sessions at the college's Wood Street campus in High Barnet, EN5 4AZ.

They take place from 10am to 2pm with the first session tomorrow, and further dates on August 29 and September 4.

For more information email info@barnetsouthgate.ac.uk or call 020 8266 4000.

Financial services degree

PREPARE for a career in the finance sector with the college's new foundation degree in financial services

It will gives applicants the background knowledge and ability to prepare for a career in the financial services industry and will help significantly in preparation for the CeMAP (Institute of Financial Services) qualification.

Applicants need a minimum of 120 UCAS points and must be at least 18 years of age and hold a BTEC National Award, an AVCE Single/Double Award, NVQ3 or one A-level in a relevant subject, or have successfully completed an access course. Anyone over 21 with relevant work experience may be exempt from the normal entry requirements.

The full-time course will be taught over two years at the college's campus in Wood Street, High Barnet, with continual assessment as well as exams at the end.

It starts next month and at other times during the year (contact the college).

Apply through UCAS or direct to Barnet and Southgate College

The course fee is £5,200 and students will also be required to buy text books for each module

Roadshow

THE college will be holding two roadshows at Edgware Broadwalk shopping centre this month.

The first takes place tomorrow with another the following Thursday, August 23.

The Haberdashers' Aske's Schools 'Side by Side for Excellence'

The Haberdashers' Aske's Schools (Elstree), placed 'side by side for excellence', enjoy the best of all worlds in school education. On adjoining sites in 100 plus acres of secure grounds, they are two, single-sex, independent day schools whose pupils benefit greatly from a vast range of social and educational opportunities. The academic reputation of the two schools is well known: they are firmly established in the 'premier league' of annually published league tables, a remarkable achievement in itself.

The vast majority of Haberdashers' students go to their first choice university, exceptionally high numbers to Oxford and Cambridge, and some achieve national academic distinction during their time at school.

The Habs style is to love learning and to enjoy the academic opportunities alongside a huge wealth of extra-curricular activity. In both schools the range of the non-academic curriculum is enormous and the level of participation by pupils very high. Sport, music, theatre, art, service in the community, partnerships with local state schools, debating, public speaking, society meetings, fund-raising initiatives, outward bound and adventurous training activities and every type of leadership and resourcefulness opportunities are all regular features of the termly routine.

The comprehensive coach service, with over 110 stops, offers a transport network over a 30 mile radius to and from school, with an unrivalled provision for pupils attending after school activities.

Life at Haberdashers' is never dull. The combination of bright pupils, marvellous facilities, first-class tuition and our commitment to excellence create a stimulating school life bursting with opportunities.

A CARING, STIMULATING AND NURTURING ENVIRONMENT

Grange Park Prep School is a school for girls founded in 1924. Girls benefit from a caring, stimulating and nurturing environment encouraging them to become confident, independent learners achieving high academic standards.

At GPPS there is a great community atmosphere where each child is well known by every member of staff and recognised as an individual. In a family atmosphere such as this the children are happy and therefore flourish academically. Before leaving GPPS nearly every girl will have been given a responsible role at some level, instilling in them an ingrained confidence and preparing them for today's challenges.

Student teacher rips up the textbook to create artwork

A TRAINEE teacher has got her pupils to tear up books from the school's library to create works of art.

Claire Rhodes has just graduated from her PGCE course at Middlesex University.

And under the supervision of the trainee art and design teacher, more than 100 pieces of "book art" were created by pupils and staff at Southgate School.

The 26-year-old was an artist in residence at the school, in Sussex Way, Cockfosters, while on a placement as part of the teaching and learning outside the classroom aspect of the course.

Using out-of-date books from the school's library, Claire showed pupils and staff that a book can be more than just a book.

Together they created sculptures, which were exhibited in the library.

Claire said: "Stepping out of the teacher role for two weeks allowed me to realise and experiment with book art ideas that I have held for a long time.

"A physical book is a multi-faceted object that presents a wide variety of opportunities.

"You can explore the information contained within, explore the book's physical history, or even explore its previous owners.

"But you can also rip it apart, cut it to pieces, twist the pages together and create your own sequence of information or develop a new story."

Before the PGCE course, Claire worked as an operations manager for a clothing company in Oxford.

Help your child improve in maths and English

AS we look to the start of the school year, it's time to consider how you can support your child's learning.

At your local study centre, Kumon offers individual maths and English study programmes tailored to all ages and abilities.

It is especially important that your child gets to grips with these core subjects and with the learning skills vital for academic progression.

Kumon's method of learning focuses on your child's individual needs, providing them with skills such as concentration and time management and ensuring they progress at their own pace.

Once enrolled on a Kumon programme, your child will visit the centre every week and have daily worksheets to complete at home.

At the centre, the instructor will monitor their progress, setting new work and encouraging them to take ownership of their learning.

By working at a steady pace with guidance and support, children acquire a strong grounding in maths and English as well as the self-motivation and confidence required to realise their unlimited potential.

Bronze, Silver and Gold for Enfield Town Kumon Students

On Tuesday, 17th July at an Advanced Student Roll awards ceremony, students from the Enfield Town Kumon Study Centre were honoured for their success and continued development studying on the Kumon maths and English programmes.

The committed children were presented with certificates and medals at Christchurch URC, Chaseside, Enfield, to celebrate exceeding their current school level of work. Mr Jonathan Brassfield, Area Manager for North London, presented the students with their awards.

Kumon is the UK's largest independent education provider, offering maths and English programmes to children of all ages and abilities. The Kumon study programmes are unique and tailored to the needs of each child. Students develop not just subject knowledge but also long-term skills such as confidence and independent learning, giving them the means to realise their own potential.

Eight-year-old Isabel has been on the programme since 2009. She was thrilled to receive a gold medal at the awards ceremony for her exceptional level of achievement relative to her age. Mrs Herd explained how the Kumon programme has benefited both Isabel and her sister:

"I truly believe that the Kumon programmes develop confident children. Both of my daughters study Kumon maths and they look forward to class each week. They even ask their Instructor if they can have extra work because they enjoy it so much! Doing a piece of work every day has made such a difference to Isabel's and Elya's progress in school."

Several Kumon students gave inspiring speeches at the ceremony including Kenenna Chukwuma who is looking forward to moving on to a top grammar school in September.

He said, "Thanks to Kumon, my sharpness, speed and accuracy have greatly improved. I can now do things that my friends do not understand. I hope my achievements can inspire other upcoming Kumon stars."

Chrysanthi Sumanasekera – instructor – summed up the day by expressing her thanks to the parents for their support and to the children for working so hard.

She said, "The achievements the students have made speak for themselves. It is like preparing for the Olympics; one needs to train daily with rigour and a clear goal."

Fun way for children to learn French or Spanish

THE government recently announced that learning a foreign language will be compulsory from the age of seven in England's primary schools.

This is music to the ears of Deborah Cheney, who runs Ecole Nicole, a well-established French and Spanish language tuition service for all ages.

She says that in the long term, having a second language or third language is more desirable to employers – and it is easier to start learning at a young age.

Deborah said: "Learning a new language will bring considerable benefits to your children's personal, cultural and cognitive development, which will have an impact not only on their skills in and attitudes towards other languages, but also make a significant contribution to their general literacy."

Deborah runs small classes after school hours at St George's School, in Gordon Road, Enfield, and was recently runner-up in the Enfield Netmums pre-school award.

She added: "At Ecole Nicole, we believe in the importance of introducing a language at an early age, through a well structured and fun method.

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

Fun on the cards: Deborah Cheney teaches an after-school French class

"Our clubs carefully tailor teaching systems to the age of the children and introduce new concepts through play, including games, flashcards, role-playing and singing.

"We have noticed that children feel immediately at ease in the setting of Ecole Nicole, a true immersion experience where almost the whole class is delivered in French or Spanish.

"Our groups are of no more than six children, allowing the tutor to focus on each child."

If you are thinking about teaching your children a foreign language, contact Deborah at Ecole Nicole to book a free trial lesson.

MUSICIANSHIP CLASSES

INSTRUMENTAL TUITION

For 4-11 year olds

(Reception Class to Year 6)

These classes aim to develop musicianship through a variety of musical games and activities. Emphasis is given to the acquisition of aural skills, musical literacy and co-ordination, which are so important for learning to play a musical instrument.

Normally children will have attended these classes before the commencement of instrumental tuition, and will continue with them for a period afterwards.

This is available on the following instruments:

- violin, viola, cello, bass
- guitar, harp
- recorder, flute, oboe, clarinet, saxophone
- French horn, trumpet, trombone, euphonium
- piano
- percussion

Tuition is normally offered to children from Year 2 upwards, but only on certain instruments for the younger ones.

Music theory lessons are also available.

Tuition on other instruments can be arranged where there is sufficient demand. Advice is given on children's suitability or readiness to play a particular instrument.

Independent link-up has mutual benefits

AT A time of coalition government when we have all been able to witness the need for parties to work closely together for the mutual benefit of the country whilst setting aside their differences, it is indeed a salutary time for schools to examine their attitudes to partnerships.

Many primary schoolchildren across the country have been benefiting from the use of sport or science facilities at their local independent school on a relatively informal basis.

At Aldenham, we have also sought to examine how we can share our facilities for the benefit of students.

Those of us who have worked in successful partnerships with maintained schools know that there is an enormous amount to be gained.

In Aldenham's case, we have worked with three local primary schools over the past few years, in each case giving their children the opportunity to undertake a Saturday morning programme including sports, science and art.

This has also given our sixth form students the chance to develop leadership skills in running the sessions.

Our Combined Cadet Force operates in an incredibly successful partnership with Queens' School, Bushey.

We also work at the level of staff development with a number of local maintained schools – and many of our staff can testify to the benefit of sharing good practice with our colleagues in the maintained sector.

Last year we incorporated another smaller educational charity, The St Hilda's Educational Trust, into the Aldenham Foundation.

By taking responsibility for St Hilda's School in Bushey, we aim to create a mutually beneficial partnership with a school which has a similar ethos to ours and which we imagine many schools will want to examine in the years ahead.

Claim back up to 70% of tuition fees

PROFESSIONAL tuition at Kip McGrath is now even more affordable thanks to it being Ofsted-registered.

Families eligible for working tax credits can claim back up to 70 per cent of lesson fees by using an Ofsted-registered tuition provider.

With some tutors charging up to £40 an hour, not everyone can afford this.

But thanks to its Ofsted registration, parents using Kip McGrath can claim back a proportion of the fees.

And the education centres also accept childcare vouchers.

The benefits are more than financial, as Ofsted carries out a series of checks, including the suitability of teachers and premises, to give parents peace of mind.

"Ofsted registration has been wonderful," said Kip McGrath centre manager Shaaron Kingston.

"Some families can now afford to send a sibling. Others are just pleased that they will be able to afford professional tuition for the long term."

Kip McGrath Education Centres have offered professional, affordable tuition in the Barnet, Enfield and Southgate areas for over ten years.

They have a fine track record and offer a free, no obligation assessment.

The centres teach children of all ages and Kip McGrath prides itself on its exam preparation. This includes entrance exams, 11+, SATs and GCSEs.

Art is best seen from the top deck of a bus

A GROUP of Middlesex University students have seen their artwork go on display across the top of London's bus stops as part of the Cultural Olympic celebrations.

The students have designed ten-second animations that will be shown on black and red LED screens on the top of bus shelters.

They can be viewed on the top deck of London's buses.

The Bus-Tops installations will feature across 20 London boroughs and will remain there until after the Paralympics finish next month.

All the pieces of digital artwork have been designed around the theme of the Olympic truce.

It was a core part of the original Olympics in ancient times which saw all competing countries laying down their arms and signing up to the truce to allow competitors to travel to Athens in peace.

The Bus-Tops project forms part of the London 2012 Cultural Olympiad, the largest cultural celebration in the history of the modern Olympic and Paralympic Movement.

The students got involved through the university's partnership with Soda, a creative agency directed and founded by former Middlesex student Fiddian Warman.

First year animation student Pamelyn Chew, 23, said: "Artists have a role in making the public students looking at the theme of truce and how it has previously had been represented by artists.

He said: "I've been impressed with the innovative work and range of approaches used by the students. The project has effectively opened up new exhibition spaces which the students are making the most of to get their work in the public domain, while demonstrating the UK's creativity and innovation when all eyes will be on Britain."

Film and media exchange student Nadissa Haynes from Trinidad and Tobago based her work on love, pictured.

The 31-year-old said: "It's amazing to be part of a global competition as significant as the Olympics, as well as an associated committee focused on peace."

The Bus-Tops project is one of 12 commissions across the UK forming part of Artists Taking the Lead, a programme funded by Arts Council England for the London 2012 Cultural Olympiad.

"I'm really excited about seeing my work on display, especially with the added exposure of tourists in the capital for the Games."

"It was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity I couldn't miss."

Fiddian ran a workshop for the Headteacher retires after 22 years in job

THE headteacher of a special needs school has retired after 22 years in the job.

Louise Gibbs signed off at Waverley School, in The Ride, Enfield, after an emotional week of goodbyes and well wishes at the end of last month.

Mrs Gibbs first started working at the school 34 years ago.

She set up the home liaison service in the early 1980s, which enables staff to provide extra support to families by visiting pupils and parents at their homes. The service extends to children who are about to start at the school.

Mrs Gibbs said: "It was important to make that link between home and school. The parents appreciate having that direct contact."

The school was previously located in Waverley Road before relocating in 1991 to a purpose-built site.

It now has a roll of 117 pupils between the ages of three and 19 with severe and profound learning difficulties.

Mrs Gibbs said: "Moving to the new school building is one of my many fond memories. The old school building was not in great condition and there were several floors, which was hard for the pupils who had mobility difficulties. This site is all on one floor."

Goodbye: Waverley headteacher Louise Gibbs with pupils and parents there

Mrs Gibbs had not intended to stay at the school for so long but opportunities kept on presenting themselves.

She said: "I stayed because I loved it. And because I had enough to do."

"The atmosphere at the school is amazing. It is very supportive and very caring. Working in a school such as this, you have to want to be here."

"The pupils are fantastic and they love coming to school."

When Mrs Gibbs started at the school, special education had only been officially recognised for only seven years.

She said: "The main thing that has changed in special education in the course of my career is people's perception of disability."

"Special education is much more integrated into the mainstream now. People's understanding has moved on a great deal."

Mrs Gibbs was showered with gifts, cards and bouquets of flowers from colleagues, former and current pupils and parents.

Speaking on her penultimate day at Waverley she added: "It just doesn't seem real at the moment. I've known everyone for so long."

Explore offers all youngsters a fun way of learning

EXPLORE Learning is a network of learning centres providing maths and English tuition to children aged five to 14.

They are designed to improve knowledge, confidence and enjoyment of learning.

Explore helps children make fantastic academic progress, whilst the vibrant atmosphere keeps them engaged and focused, making learning fun.

Children become members and then work with tutors who are great role models, enthusiastic about learning and fantastic motivators.

All courses map to the National Curriculum and the individual focus allows children to work at their own pace – whether they are finding school tricky or top of the class.

To find out more about the tuition offered by Explore Learning, contact your nearest centre to book a free trial session and see the centre in action.

Satisfaction with college apprentices

A RENEWABLE energy business left other firms green with envy after winning a competition run by Hertford Regional College.

The college's business solutions team recently carried out an employer survey to determine levels of satisfaction with the services it provides.

The department is responsible for all workplace training including NVQs, short courses and apprenticeships and works in partnership with a number of employers.

As an incentive to fill in the survey, each respondent was entered into a prize draw to win a laptop. And it was Oakray Renewable Energy in Enfield which was picked from the 43 names in the hat.

Director Keith Mottram said he was very happy to receive the prize, adding that he had never won anything in his life.

And he also praised the apprentices who had come to Oakray from the college.

Keith said: "HRC has a good reputation and we've been very happy with the college.

"We have employed apprentices who are trained at the college and are looking to take on some more in September.

"Apprentices have improved our retention and benefit our business because they know the way we work and we can mould them into our processes.

"Also, when brainstorming for new ideas, we find that apprentices can provide a fresh new angle."

Oakray Renewable Energy is a fully accredited MCS renewable energy installation company and the delivery arm of Oakray Limited, which has successfully delivered high-quality heating, ventilation and electrical services for over 30 years.

It offers design, installation, service and repair of all forms of renewable energy systems, mechanical, ventilation, heating and electrical services to houses, offices, schools, and high and low rise dwellings.

The survey also revealed that:

- 98 per cent of respondents are satisfied with the quality of training delivered at HRC.

- 95 per cent feel the training received has improved standards in their organisation.

- 96 per cent stated that training has increased staff skills.

For more details about apprenticeships at Hertford Regional College call 01992 411 572, email apprenticeship@hrc.ac.uk or visit www.hrc.ac.uk

Congratulations: Barbara Stone, the college's head of employer engagement, hands over the laptop to Keith Mottram, director of Oakray Heating and Electrical

WITH the escalating costs of drama schools and universities, CS Academy offer the very best actor training while still allowing course members to continue study or work commitments.

It was launched in October last year as an upper school to the renowned Centre Stage School of Performing Arts in Southgate, which was established in 1999 by principal Carole O'Shea.

Acting training on your terms

CS Academy offers exciting and exhilarating courses for students aged 18 upwards.

They focus on harnessing individual strengths, providing a firm base of the essentials required for students to take their acting further, hone their skills, and assist them in discovering their own acting process.

The CS Group has seen students gain places at major London drama schools such as RADA, Central School of Speech and Drama, Bristol Old Vic, Mountview and Rose Bruford College.

The course offers exceptional opportunities in both training, and professional theatre exposure.

And there are masterclasses with industry experts, acting for stage and screen, drama School audition technique, and London and Edinburgh Showcase opportunities.

To mark the completion of CS Academy's successful first year, this month students are performing a brand-new production of Spring Awakening at the Edinburgh Fringe Festival.

It will then transfer to the Tristan Bates Theatre in Covent Garden.

Razzamataz's success began in Dragons' Den

AFTER a successful appearance on BBC show Dragons' Den, Razzamataz Theatre Schools have been opening all across the country – including Barnet.

Founder and director of Razzamataz Denise Hutton-Gosney appeared on the show in January 2007.

And Duncan Bannatyne was quick to spot the huge potential of the part-time theatre schools business and offered the full investment.

This has enabled the team to rapidly expand the company and turn Razzamataz into one of the top five part-time theatre schools in the UK, according to The Stage newspaper.

Since her appearance in the Den, Denise and her dedicated team have been busy building up the Razzamataz brand.

There are now almost 40 schools across the country, with Razzamataz in Barnet launched in April.

Michael French, its principal, said he is delighted to bring its blend of performing arts to local children.

"Nurturing young talent and building up a child's confidence and self-esteem is a big part of what we do at Razzamataz," said Michael.

"We teach the children a mix of commercial street dance and musical theatre so they get to experience the very best of what the performing arts has to offer."

The classes consist of three hours of dance, drama and singing and the curriculum covers the whole of the performing arts, from classic West End musical theatre to commercial street dance and hip hop.

As well as classes run by a team of experienced teachers, Razzamataz also prides itself of being able to bring in top professionals in their field to work with their students to inspire them to be the very best they can be.

Over the last few months, Razzamataz children up and down the country have enjoyed workshops led by Kylie Minogue's choreographer Tim Noble and Zoo Nation, creators of Into the Hoods – the first hip hop musical in the West End.

And Razzamataz in Barnet is excited about the chance to offer local children the opportunity to work with artists with such credible industry experience.

"I am delighted to have brought Razzamataz to Barnet," added Michael. "The whole team is passionate about what they do and the structure of the classes allow children to enjoy and learn about the whole spectrum of performing arts in a fun and stimulating environment.

"Razzamataz makes sure that it reflects the current trends that are accessible to children and teenagers so they never get bored."

As well as the obvious health benefits, participation in theatre arts has been shown to benefit children in many different areas as they acquire life and performance skills.

Theatre-trained individuals are identified as having transferable skills such as good interviewing technique – massively important in the job market. Razzamataz also teaches self-discipline and the ability to work as part of a team.

The Barnet school is offering a free taster day on Saturday, September 15. To secure your child's place call Michael on 01923 805 846 or 07788 592 171.

This wonderful scenic journey, one of our most popular escorted tours, takes in the very best of Eastern Canada, with visits to a quartet of stunning cities, journeys through some breathtaking scenery, through wide-open spaces under 'big skies', and has as its most memorable highlight a visit to one of the world's most awe-inspiring natural wonders, the plunging Falls at Niagara.

Your journey will begin in Ontario's warm and welcoming waterfront city of Toronto, with its labyrinth of interconnected shopping malls, elegant historic buildings and, most famously, the sky-piercing needle of the CN Tower. From here the spectacle of Niagara is a short drive around the lake, before you take to the Maple Leaf Trail proper, heading north to Canada's historic capital Ottawa, then further east into French Canada, journeying to glorious Montréal, stylish Olympic city, and finally to picturesque Québec, capital of French Canada, and where the New World still resembles the Old.

With four-star accommodation throughout and travel by comfortable touring coach in the company of our friendly Tour Manager, who will bring to life this extraordinary part of the world, your journey along the Maple Leaf Trail is one that you'll never forget.

INJURY WOE FOR PARKER

By Dominique Stafford

KEY midfielder Scott Parker is set to miss the first month of the new Premier League campaign after Tottenham Hotspur confirmed that he had undergone surgery on an Achilles injury.

Parker was ruled out of the last four games of last season with an Achilles problem, but recovered in time to start all of England's matches in Euro 2012.

However, the problem has flared up again over the summer and Parker underwent surgery last week. The club have confirmed that the surgery was successful, but he is not expected to return to full training until after September's international break.

Meanwhile, Spurs are expected to intensify their search for a new striker this week ahead of their opening league fixture at Newcastle United on Saturday.

Jermain Defoe is currently the only senior striker on their books, and their bid to sign Emmanuel Adebayor – who spent a successful loan spell at White Hart Lane last season – on a permanent deal stalled earlier in the summer.

But Adebayor has been told by manager Roberto Mancini that he is surplus to requirements at Manchester City and Tottenham are expected to step up their interest in the Togo international.

□ Young duo Jake Livermore and Stephen Caulker have expressed their delight after being called into the full England squad for the first time.

Defender Caulker – who played for Team GB in the Olympic Games – and midfielder Livermore were named in Roy Hodgson's squad

On the sidelines: Scott Parker is set to miss the start of the new season for tonight's clash against Italy in Switzerland, where they have been joined by Spurs team-mates Defoe and Kyle Walker.

"It's an amazing feeling to get a first senior call-up," Caulker said. "It's what I've dreamed of since I was a kid. I didn't think much could top the Olympics, but this is great.

"It would be a dream to get that first cap, and it doesn't come much bigger than Italy. It would be a fantastic moment."

Livermore added: "It's fantastic news and I'm really happy. It's just nice to know that all the hard work has been recognised.

"It's the pinnacle really and it would be great now to be involved in some way – it would be something special to get a first cap."

Disappointing cup defeat for Borough

HARINGEY BOROUGH'S hopes of lucrative run in the FA Cup came to an end at the first hurdle on Saturday as they lost 3-1 at home to AFC Kempston Rovers in the extra preliminary round of the competition.

Borough had beaten Kempston at the same stage of the competition 12 months ago, but they were forced to pay the price for putting in a below-par performance on this occasion.

The visitors were much the better side in the first half, but a combination of some poor finishing and the exploits of Borough keeper Austin Byfield meant that they were unable to turn their dominance into goals.

The same pattern continued after the interval, but it was the hosts who took the lead against the run of play on 66 minutes when Dean Fenton's free-kick was turned into the net by Darrell Cox.

However, Kempston were gifted an equaliser within four minutes as a dreadful misunderstanding between Byfield and Cedric Lakole ended up with Lakole heading into his own net.

The visitors were lifted by this and they took the lead six minutes later when Danny Wilson drilled home from close range after the Borough defence failed to deal with a long ball.

Borough were desperately unlucky not to snatch an 89th-minute equaliser when Cox and Dwayne Clarke both smashed the ball against the underside of the bar within a matter of seconds, but that proved to be their last chance and Josh Bamford added Kempston's third at the end of a swift counter-attack in stoppage time.

Resurgent Hornsey continue to pull clear of the drop zone

HORNSEY'S excellent late-season form continued on Saturday as they romped to a comfortable 86-run victory at Hampstead in Division One of the Middlesex County Cricket League.

Having overcome table-topping Winchmore Hill the previous week, this latest triumph has surely banished any lingering fears they had of the drop.

Paul Weekes again made the key contribution with the bat by hitting an unbeaten 89 as Hornsey declared on 270-7. Mike Phillipson chipped in with 54.

And an excellent all-round display with the ball then saw Hampstead dismissed for 184 as the visitors cruised to victory.

Meanwhile, North Middlesex remain in third place in Division Two after securing a three-wicket win at Wembley.

The hosts had to settle for a total of 199 batting first, and Andy Holmes' unbeaten 64 guided North Middlesex to 203-7 in reply.

Division Three action saw North London snatch a dramatic two-wicket triumph at home to South Hampstead off the last ball of the match.

Sharmar Anderson's 117 helped South Hampstead to post an imposing 253-9, but North London paced their reply to perfection – with Jack Atchinson top-scoring with 58 as they made it to 254-8.

There was also success for Highgate in Division Three as they beat Edmonton by six wickets to pull 19 points clear of the danger zone.

Karman Mapatuna (89 not out) and Matt Holly (60) played the decisive innings as Highgate made it to 242-4 in reply to Edmonton's 241.

Saturday sees Hornsey going to Winchmore Hill, while North Middlesex visit Brentham, Highgate make the trip to South Hampstead and North London entertain Edmonton.
